Upsilon Xi, the oldest men's service organization at Lee College, desires to promote Christian fellowship, scholarly pursuits, and dedicated service. In conjunction with these purposes, the activities, projects, and services slated for the year were for the "good of school, club, and self." An annual fellowship retreat before registration begins the year for the men of Upsilon, and the Upsilon Sadie Hawkins Chase has become the event most looked forward to by the campus. Presenting devotional booklets for the Spring and Fall convocation and ushering are traditions to be proud of. The "Go Vikings" display for Homecoming was one of the most outstanding. The spectacular Musical Pomposity was produced as a charity service. The year's activities were climaxed by a spring banquet in honor of graduating members.
