UPSILON XI

Upsilon Xi, Lee College's oldest fraternal organization, began the 1970-'71 academic year with an extremely young club. They moved quickly, however, and pushed their fall project, Sadie Hawkins, which was an unprecedented success. The men of Upsilon Xi also published a calendar, sponsored a retreat for returning members, and maintained their traditional Reflections project. During the second semester Upsilon Xi prepared itself for the future. It did have time to field a competitive basketball squad, put on their annual spring project musical pomposity, and to close the year on a note of reflection with their annual spring banquet.
